

Course: Housing and Living Environments 12

Course Format: Online

Credits: 4

Description: The aim of Housing and Living Environments is to provide an overview of housing and society. Students will learn about the social aspect of living environments within housing, and how cultural norms regarding family structures and relationships have changed over time. This course will also provide students with an opportunity to explore their future housing choices and factors that influence those choices, including costs and maintenance.

Prerequisite: None

Resources: All the resources that are required for the course are contained in the course.

